

cabledrop

The CableDrop is simple cable clip with an attractive design that allows it hide in plain sight. After, crawling under my desk one too many times for my laptop power cable, I designed the CableDrop to keep cables for gadgets right where I needed them. Made of injection molded urethane rubber and manufactured locally in St. Louis, they stick to a surface using custom made double sided adhesive. I obtained a provisional patent to protect the product while I was actively working with manufactures.

Materials: urethan rubber, self adhesive sticker
